

Intramural Basketball

The basketball session of intramurals is typically split between grades (4-5th play together and 6-7th play together; one group on each day of the week) to allow for a more competitive and fun experience for all players. Players are placed on teams each week in a variety of ways based on number of players, teacher discretion, and student input. Activities will include mostly full or half-court games. Some time will be spent doing a variety of skills practice/drill and other shooting games. There is an emphasis placed on using a minimum amount of substitutes so students are playing for the greater portion of each session. Teachers serve as referees and monitor games so this doesn't happen...
